

A Mini Conference on "Universal Human Values: A Foundation for Ethical Living and Sustainable Development"

On 26/10/2024, Saturday

The Department of Applied Sciences and Humanities (AS&H) and the Department of Multidisciplinary Studies organized a Mini Conference on Universal Human Values (UHV) on October 26, 2024, for the second-year engineering students. Dr. Aprajita Singh, the UHV Western Regional Coordinator, presided over the conference alongside Mr. Mahesh Jadhav Bhaiya, the UHV Central Team Coordinator. The HSMC faculties guided the students in organizing the conference. This student-led initiative aimed at fostering ethical development and holistic growth in students through the principles of Universal Human Values. A total of 40 papers were presented during the conference

Objectives

The conference was organized with the following key objectives:

1. To inculcate Universal Human Values (UHV) among students for ethical decision-making and positive social impact.
2. To engage students in discussions on UHV principles with experienced resource persons, enhancing their understanding of moral responsibilities in personal and professional life.
3. To encourage research and scholarly activities focused on UHV, as demonstrated by student paper presentations.
4. To strengthen PCCOE's commitment toward integrating UHV within its academic and community activities.
